About the Author: Melvin A. Taylor lives in Linden, New Jersey, He considers himself more of an entrepreneur, and resilient warrior, that just happen to have written The Kindred Spirits Book series. Historically, he has always been someone who ran away from anything that related to writing. He did graduate college with a Bachelor’s degree and is currently working in the brokerage industry with several securities licenses, but whenever it came to writing any kind of stories about himself, an event or simply updating his resume, He would reach out to his sister, Carol A. Taylor (the editor of the award-winning, bestselling Brown Sugar erotic fiction series). He has always been a strong believer that whatever you are seeking in life might be seeking you. He now believes that sometimes what you are not seeking in life, might be also be seeking you. Instead of running away from it, turn around and run towards it, embrace it. These 3 books are proof of that fact.
